NEWPORT, RI MANSION TAKES PART IN GULF COAST CLEAN-UP

The Chanler At Cliff Walk Donates Proceeds To Greater New Orleans Foundation

June 15, 2010 (Newport, Rhode Island) – The Chanler at Cliff Walk, the cliff side mansion overlooking the Atlantic Ocean named #4 Small Hotel in the U.S. by Conde Nast Traveler, is donating proceeds from their award-winning restaurant Spiced Pear to the Gulf Coast Oil Spill Restoration Fund officiated by the National Wildlife Federation. They are committed to donating $5 from each Lobster BLT sold throughout the summer until at least September 30, 2010.

Christine Sullivan, General Manager of The Chanler, derived the idea thinking what affect it would have had if it occurred in The Chanler's own backyard. "It's unfathomable," said Sullivan. "As a coastal property, we understand the importance of protecting all of our resources – the food we eat, the wildlife we watch, the beaches we visit and the ocean we swim in. The effects of the Gulf Coast Oil Spill are far reaching, and we are only beginning to understand the full extent of the damage to our oceans, shorelines, wildlife and to our fishing and tourism industries. This is a man- made disaster and we need to come together and fix it."

Along with Sullivan, The Chanler's ownership, Executive Chef, Thomas Duffy, and their entire team empathize with the devastating affect of the Deepwater Horizon Oil Spill. As a property residing in Newport, known as the "City by the Sea," The Chanler can only imagine the devastation if it would have occurred near Rhode Island, the "Ocean State" and its seaside communities.

National Wildlife Federation, America's largest conservation organization, has organized the NWF Gulf Oil Spill Restoration Fund. The money donated to this fund will go toward supporting NWF's immediate response and longer term on-the-ground work to safeguard the wildlife and coastlines affected by this tragedy.
